Epidermolysis Bullosa (EB) is a very rare genetic connective-tissue disorder that affects roughly 1 in every 20,000 births. Imagine living with skin so fragile that even the slightest friction causes blisters and wounds—pain so intense it can feel like a third-degree burn that never truly heals. What lengths would you go to for relief? Right now, there is no cure for EB. Care focuses on pain management, wound care, and protective bandaging to help prevent further injury and provide as much comfort as possible.

Waiver and Release of Liability

I understand that participating in a road or trail race is a potentially hazardous activity. I affirm that I will not enter or participate unless I am medically able and properly trained. I acknowledge that there may be traffic on the course and I voluntarily assume the risks associated with running in such conditions.

I accept full responsibility for any and all risks connected to participating in or attending this event, including but not limited to: falls, contact with other participants, effects of weather, and the condition of roads or trails. I acknowledge that these risks are known and understood by me.

In consideration of the acceptance of my entry fee, I, for myself, my heirs, executors, administrators, and anyone else who may claim on my behalf, hereby covenant not to sue and fully waive, release, and discharge Pretzel City Sports, Kisses for EB, any subcontractors they engage, all municipalities involved in the race, the race committee, volunteers, sponsors, and their agents, employees, assigns, or anyone acting on their behalf, from any and all claims or liabilities for death, personal injury, or property damage of any kind arising from my participation in this event.

This waiver applies to all claims of any nature, whether foreseen or unforeseen, known or unknown.

By entering this race, I grant permission to Pretzel City Sports to use any photographs or likenesses of me taken during the event for any purpose they see fit, without review, restriction, or compensation.

I HAVE READ AND UNDERSTAND THIS WAIVER.(If under 18, a legal guardian must sign.)
