At first glance you might not suspect that Chrissy was a runner. She was a cheerleader, a homecoming queen, and a mom who was busy organizing fundraisers and running concession stands for her kids' sports. But she was also a runner. Like many runners, she started when her kids got a little older. She started with the Step N Stride program led by Jen Burgess and Sandi Bergan where she built a solid running base and began to run races. She surprised her family and friends with the challenge of running her first half marathon. Of course, she picked one with a tiara, pink feather boa, and blinged out medal for finishers. She convinced her non-tiara, non-feather boa friends this was a good idea. They reveled in all of it after crossing that finish line! She ran mud runs, completed a Tough Mudder, and more 5Ks, 10Ks and Halfs. She was tough and with an "Oh Geez", would tackle any challenge. She would later wield this toughness in her fight against breast cancer. Much of her has been incorporated into the race. The "Oh Geez" on the hat was her saying. She was a Dallas Cowboys fan (her one flaw in some people's opinion...LOL) and this can be seen on the stars on the medals. Her mom, Sharon, and her always put together an awesome themed float for the Minersville Halloween Parade so we incorporated a prize for Best Costume. Join us in the 5K! If you knew Chrissy or not, she would think it was great you are here, and respond with an "Oh Geez" at the crowd of people who showed up.
